In incurring these expenses I have exercised reasonable economy and these expenses have either been incurred exclusively on JMC business or they represent a fair apportionment of expenses where other business has been undertaken alongside JMC business.

Please send completed expenses claims to treasurer@jmc.org.uk (see JMC website for postal address).

The JMC seeks to meet the difference between costs incurred by representatives in attending meetings, and their normal expenditure. Thus:

- Travelling expenses are normally paid in full on the basis shown below.
- The payment made for meals recognises that the cost of a lunch, for example, is likely to be higher than 'at home'.

Those representing the JMC, and trustees or others invited to JMC meetings, may claim repayment of expenses as follows:

- Travelling expenses: standard public transport fare at the cheapest rate available (please buy advance/cheaper split tickets where possible). Alternatively, where significant time and/or money savings would be made, car travel at 40p per mile.
- Incidental expenses such as necessary car parking.
- Lunch: up to £6.00 where a lunch is not otherwise provided
- Evening Meal: Up to £20.00 in London, £16.00 elsewhere
- Hotel: up to £85.00 in London and £60.00 elsewhere for bed and breakfast accommodation.

The JMC may decline to repay other non-standard expenses, unless the treasurer has given prior approval for these expenses to be incurred. Payments are made when supported by receipts
